DiscussIT Topic 6: Where is our country headed?

Discuss IT Topic: Over the last week, our country has had growing concerns on immigration bans, border safety, and executive orders that remind us of issues that have been plaguing our country for years. Now that Trump has been elected President, there has been people threatening to blow up the White House, human right protests, and a plethora of other sensitive subject matters that are very compelling to individual groups of people. Why have these issues come up now as we head into a time in which it seems no one is going to be happy with the outcomes? Will this create a split in this country and place citizens against one another when it comes to their views? In your opinion, what other topics are at the forefront of concern? Explain...

Response: Please make sure all grammar, spelling, indentation, and punctuation is correct.

In my opinion not every person is going to agree with a certain decision made, and people could probably react in a negative way. I honestly feel that we should support the president either way because he's our president anyways at the end of the day, but unfortunately people want to protest. Sometimes these protests end in a violent way. The country at this point is already split into two sides due to this rampage. To be honest, I believe that people should not be complaining about his presidency, but support him and maybe request changes in laws or give out their opinions in a peaceful way. The waters are calming down a bit, which is good. All in all, I just hope we can become a peaceful and united nation like it was before.
